The Shickshinny Democrat is a new eight page weekly, published by Deemer Bidleman, a native of Bloomsburg. He was formerly general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Wilkesbarre. The paper makes a neat appearance, and is very readable. Mr. Bidleman is well equipped for his work, and will no doubt make a success of it.

The second annual convention of the Y. M. C. A. of the Wilkesbarre district meets at Kingston on the 8th, 9th and 10th insts. Among those who will take part in the proceedings are Hon. H. M. It is bright, and newsy, and Benton is to be congratulated upon its printing establishment. Mr. Smith was formerly a Columbia county editor, and we welcome him back here, and wish him great success in his new enterprise. The business men of Benton evidently appreciate their home paper, for it starts in with a liberal advertising patronage.

M. Q. White, proprietor of the Espy hotel, died last Sunday morning. He had been ill for some time, but was not confined to his bed. On Wednesday he hitched up one of his horses and drove to Bloomsburg, but on reaching home he felt much worse, and went to bed, saying to his wife that he feared he would never get out again. His age was forty-three years and he leaves a wife and two adopted daughters to survive him. He was a man of very kind disposition, and every body liked him. He bought the hotel a couple of years ago, and has kept a very orderly and well conducted house. The funeral took place on Thursday, and the burial was at the Afton cemetery.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

At a meeting of the Town Council Thursday evening Allen, Gorrey, Rhoades Willits were present.

Secretary laid before the Council the statement of the accounts of Robert Buckingham town treasurer, and M. C. Woodward collector of taxes for the years 1890 and 1891 respectively together with a statement of the receipts and expenditures of the town for the year 1891 ending with March 31, 1892.

Statement was upon motion approved, directed to be spread upon the minutes and publication ordered in the COLUMBIAN, Republican and Sentinel.

Adjourned sine die.

Few new plays have, upon their first presentation, received more gratifying reception than that accorded to "McGinty's Troubles" at the Grand by the large audience which assembled at that popular theatre last evening. It is probably enough to say, without entering into particulars, that the company is a fine one, and in fact above the average of companies of that nature. There are specialties introduced to vary the monotony of killing and love making, and the audience just went wild with enthusiasm. The villains were hissed and the heroes and heroines applauded, and all were called before the curtain. "McGinty's Troubles" played all the week.—Stillwater Journal, Nov. 1, 1890.

Bloomsburg Opera House, April 13.

The confidence that people have in Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood medicine is the legitimate and natural growth of many years. It has been handed down from parent to child, and is the favorite family medicine in thousands of households.

RUSSIAN AID. MEETING.

Pursuant to a call by P. S. Harman, President of the Town Council, a meeting was held in the court house last Friday evening to take measures for raising money for the relief of the sufferers from famine in Russia.

Mr. Harman presided and Paul E. Wirt was chosen Secretary.

A most urgent and touching appeal for aid for the starving in Russia, received by the President of Council from the Relief Association in the United States, was read, after which discussion was had with a view of placing Bloomsburg's citizens among those in the United States contributing aid.

Upon motion it was resolved that pastors of the several churches call attention next Sunday to the great and urgent need of a contribution by all of our citizens, and that it be done at the earliest possible time.

Upon motion of Mr. Neal and Mr Brown it was ordered that the town be divided into ten districts with a committee of two for each district to solicit aid, this committee to be chosen by a general committee of five business men who shall have general charge and supervision of the work.

The president appointed as this general committee of five: A. Z. Schoch, W. L. Moyer, John Townsend, C. C. Peacock and M. P. Lutz, who are authorized to district the town and generally manage the matter of obtaining speedy aid

Upon motion it was further ordered moneys obtained shall be forwarded to Drexel & Co., Philadelphia, in accordance with suggestions received from those having charge of the aid fund in this country.

A GREAT SURPRISE.

The newly arrived family of Rev. W. G. Ferguson (the present occupants of the Methodist Episcopal parsonage) were greatly surprised on last Wednesday when the door bell rang and there was carried in one of Mr. Correl's handsomest parlor suits, the gift of Mrs. Freas Brown. Few parsonages are so fortunate, and to the pastor and his family it is an inspiration. Happy the congregation that possesses so liberal a donor as Mrs. Brown.

Prior to this The Ladies Aid Society had put down a beautiful carpet on the parlor floor, and papered handsomely the walls; besides other important changes in the house. From the first Methodism has had its useful women, and the stock still survives The surprise was further increased when a most beautiful chamber suit was brought in, the handsome gift of several liberal friends. Such people are a benediction to any community and a great source of encouragment to their pastor.

A good thing never grows old. This is the reason why "McGinty's Troubles" goes with such a whirl of fun and excitement. Enthusiasm is the only word to describe the state of the people who witnessed this comedy at the Bijou last night. There was a roar of laughter from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Not the laughter that comes from the gallery, but the guffaw that convulses the entire house from top to bottom. All the music, features, songs, dances and medleys are new.—Winona Daily Gazette, Nov. 4, 1890.

Bloomsburg Opera House. April 13.

Last Tuesday morning there appeared on the pavements on Main and Market streets, huge footsteps painted in white, with some characters on them that were difficult to decipher at first but on closer inspecton, it read "Going to Duffey's". The tracks all led in the direction of Duffey's gallery on Market Square.

It is a great misfortune for the young and middle aged to be gray. To overcome this and appear young, use Hall's Hair Renewer, a reliable panacea.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, April 4, 1892.

The black wings of the foul bird scandal are flapping ominously over this administration, which has been lauded—by republicans—for its purity and honesty—ever since it came into power. No wonder that Mr. Harrison, who, to "render under Caesar that which is Caesar's", is a man of great personal purity and sterling honesty, is shocked at some of the most recent exposures. Any honest man would be. And what makes the matter worse, is that prominent members of Mr. Harrison's own party have shown up some of the worst things. For instance, it was a republican Senator—Manderson of Nebraska—who on the floor of the Senate proclaimed, and produced the documents to prove that the authorities of the Indian Bureau have for several months been trying to compel the army officer, who is acting Indian Agent at Pine Ridge Agency, to accept and distribute 120,000 pounds of bacon which has been sent to the agency by a Chicago contractor and refused by the army officer, because of its being unfit to eat. How Mr. Harrison must enjoy reading the letters from the saintly Indian Commissioner (who signalized his entrance into Office, several years ago, by creating a scandal, in connection with saddling his wife's traveling expenses on the Government, besides getting her a salary by appointing her his private secretary) to the honest army officer in behalf of the dishonest contractor.

It was also a republican Senator—Chandler of New Hampshire—who, as chairman of the Senate committee on Immigration, first directed public attention to the fact that officials of the Treasury department had authorized the expenditure of $350,000 more than there was any legal authority for spending, on the buildings, etc., at the Government Immigrant station on Ellis Island in New York Harbor, an expenditure which the House and Senate Committees on Immigration are now jointly engaged in investigating, for the purpose of placing the responsibility therefor upon some one official, if possible. It cannot be charged that politics had anything to do with exposing either of these charming specimens of official crookedness. The Pension Office scandal Mr. Harrison has had with him so long that he has probably almost become accustomed to it; but some of Raum's admissions, to say nothing of the testimony of others to the House Committee now engaged in investigating that office, must have made very interesting reading for Mr. Harrison.

The first step towards the tariff reform, which the democratic party will ask the voters of the country to endorse next November, will have been taken when the House passes the Springer free wool bill, this week, and others will follow in due season. If the republican Senate sees fit to refuse to pass these bills, so much the worse for the republican party.

Silver rumors are thick just now, probably because of the agitation in the Senate caused by the debate brought on by Senator Morgan's resolution and challenge to the Senators to define their positions. In spite of all that is said it is very doubtful whether the Senate will go to the extent of voting on Senator Stewart's free coinage bill. It certainly will not, if the influence of the administration is strong enough to prevent it. The most interesting rumor is one that says more than eighty members of the House have entered into an agreement to filibuster continuously on everything, except tariff bills, unless the Committee on rules will report another rule setting a date for the consideration of the Bland free coinage bill. Further than that such a request has been made of the Committee, the rumor cannot be confirmed.

Superintendent of Immigration Owen, the Indiana ex-Congressman whom Assistant Secretary Nettleton has accused of being unfit for his place and careless, if not dishonest, in the handling of vouchers for Uncle Sam's hard cash, has endeavored to answer the charges by throwing the blame for everything that has gone wrong in his office on the clerks, and by charging that General Nettleton is trying, in the interests of parties who opposed the creation of the office of Superintendent of Immigration, and has been from the time he (Owen) took charge of that office, to throw obstacles in the path of its work and bring discredit upon it. It is easy enough to believe that both of them are telling the truth, republican officials are such a queer lot. Mr. Harrison is willing, it is said, to sacrifice Owen, who is his personal friend, and also Nettleton, if that would settle the scandal; but he has been told by members of both the House and Senate Immigration Committees that they intended to probe the whole matter to the bottom, whoever it might hurt, so that he will probably wait awhile before making any removals or asking for any resignations.

THE COMING MAN.

A pair of very chubby legs,
Encased in scarlet hose;
A pair of little clubby boots,
With rather doubtful toes;
A little kilt, a little coat,
Cut as a mother can—
And low before us stands in state
The future's coming man.

His eyes, perchance, will read the stars,
And search their unkown ways;
Perchance the human heart and soul
Will open to their gaze;
Perchance their keen and flashing glance
Will be a nation's light—
Those eyes that now are wistful bent
On some big fellow's kite.

Those hands—those little busy hands—
So sticky, small and brown;
Those hands whose only mission seems
To pull all order down—
Who knows what hidden strength may be
Hidden within their clasp,
Though now 'tis but a taffy stick
In sturdy hold they grasp.

Ah, blessings on those little hands,
Whose work is yet undone!
And blessings on those little feet
Whose race is yet unrun!
And blessings on the little brain
That has not learned to plan!
Whate'er the future holds in store,
God bless the coming man!

TIM'S SUNDAY DINNER.

"Ain't them beauties, now?" Old Duncan Brown held up a pair of bronze shoes in his rough, toil-stained hand, and gazed at them admiringly.

The only other occupant of the dingy shoe shop, a sickly looking boy of 15, glanced up from his work.

"Who be they for, Mr. Brown?" he asked. "There ain't many folks around here as wears shoes like them."

"Them be for the squire's darter up on the hill. They're for a birthday present, and was to be done Saturday night prompt. Well, there they be now, and up they go onto the shelf till sent for."

As he spoke he wrapped the dainty little shoes in fine paper, packed them in a neat box and set them on a shelf.

"She'll feel fine in them," said the boy.

"The squire he always must hev the best of everything for Nellie. 'Bout the size of Sissy, she be. Them shoes'd look nice on Siss. She's a purty girl."

The boy nodded in response to this show of parental pride.

"They'd pay a lot fer such a pair down to the store at the crossin', wouldn't they?" he asked, still thinking of the bronze shoes.

"They don't have that kind there, all hand-sewed and little gilt buttons. Wish I could sell 'em to 'em, and have the money. Mother and me'd have a good dinner one day in the year."

The boy was only an apprentice. He lived in a tumble-down cottage at the end of the village with his widowed mother.

Duncan Brown had made shoes for the village folk for many a day. The new shoe store at the crossing had somewhat lessened his patronage, but he scorned to consider it as a rival.

"There be plenty as will stand by the old man till he quits work," he used to say.

Duncan had married late in life, and was old enough to be the grandfather of the blue-eyed, golden-haired fairy who called him papa, and had brightened his home for eight years.

"Dinner is most ready, papa; come and get ready. Come, Tim."

She came dancing into the room like a ray of sunlight.

Old Duncan Brown caught her in his arms and tossed her until she shrieked with laughter.

"Does Sissy want to see something purty?"

He took down the box from the shelf and let her open it.

"O-o-h! for me, papa?"

"No, pet, them's fer a little girl jest about your size, Nellie Barclay. You'll have some like 'em some day."

Sissy gave a happy laugh.

"Next Christmas, papa? Let's go to dinner, it's getting all cold."

Dinner over, Mr. Brown got out overcoat, muffler, and mittens.

"I be going down to the crossin', Mary, and won't be back till supper. You kin go right home, Tim, and tell your mother you've been such a good boy I thought you needed a half holiday. Sure ye be here bright and early Monday morning."

When Duncan and Tim had both gone, Mrs. Brown lay down in her darkened room to sleep off a troublesome headache.

The afternoon was a little dull for Sissy with no one but the cat to talk to. She was glad when about four o'clock a little playmate called on her.

"Nellie Murray, come right in. I'm all alone. Did you bring your doll?"

"I can't stay but a minute, Sissy. Mamma sent me to get my shoes. Mr. Brown said they would be done to day."

"Yes, they are," said Sissy. "I'll get them for you. Papa showed them to me, and he said they were for Nellie somebody; of course that's you. They're so cunning, Nellie, all brown with little gilt buttons."

Nellie's brown eyes sparkled. Her clothes were always of the plainest, and her shoes stout leather, made to wear, for her father had hard work to feed and clothe his six children.

With the aid of a chair, the box Mr. Brown had packed so carefully was dragged from the shelf, and Nellie's plump little arms closed about it.

"Oh, Sissy, they're for a surprise. Mamma didn't tell me but what they were old black ones. I never had any other kind. I musn't open them. I'd get so interested I couldn't put them up again," and laughing merrily the little maid kissed her friend goodby and ran quickly home.

Sissy was sound asleep in her bed when Mr. Brown came home in the evening.

He was seated at the table, about to attack his smoking supper, when a sharp rap came at the door.

"Squire Barclay's boy for a pair of shoes that were to be ready this evening," came a voice out of the darkness.

"They be all ready. Come in, sonny, and take a seat while I go get 'em for ye," said Duncan, cordially, as he went hastily out into his shop.

He was gone several moments, and came back at last empty-handed.

"Mary," he said slowly, "hev ye seen them shoes?"

"Not since they were finished. What is the matter? What makes you look so?"

Instead of answering her question, Duncan asked another.

"Did Tim come back arter he left this noon?"

"I don't know. He might have come while I was asleep. What is it, Duncan?"

"Mary, I wouldn't hev believed it of him. He saw me put them shoes up on the shelf, and they bean't there now. He said as how he'd like to sell 'em and have the money. Git my coat, Mary, I'm going out."

"Why, Duncan, what are you saying? Did you look well? Would you accuse the boy of stealing because they are not in that spot."

"They be gone, Mary; I know it here." He laid his hand over his heart. "Ken ye wait a minute?" he said to the boy. "No, ye go tell the squire—"

A step outside, and a knock interrupted him! He went to the door and flung it wide open.

"Good evenin', Mr. Murray."

"Evenin', Brown. Come to tell you there'd been a mistake somewhere. Your Sissy gave my girl the wrong pair of shoes. Didn't discover it till this evening. Wish I could afford her such a pair, but I can't."

When the squire's messenger had carried off the little bronze shoes, and Mr. Murray had walked away with a pair of substantial black ones, Duncan turned to his wife, his hand upon his heart again.

"Mary," he said, "I know here that I've been a fool. Jest get my coat. I'm goin' out and buy the biggest turkey in town for that boy."

And that is how Tim and his mother came to have a turkey dinner on a day that was neither Thanksgiving nor Christmas nor even Fourth of July.

Operating on a Tiger.

Doctor Haughton, the curator of the Dublin Zoological Society, discovered that one of the tigers was lame. Upon examining its paw through the bars of the cage he found that a claw was growing inwards into the ball of the foot, causing the poor brute great agony whenever he tried to walk. The doctor determined to cut out the claw.

Five keepers assisted him, three in front of the cage and two behind. The tiger was lassoed, and, much against his will, tied down, the five keepers holding him firmly with a rope. The doctor then raised the bars, entered the cage and began operating. But he had forgotten to guard himself against the tigress in the cage adjoining. She contrived to reach him with one paw and knocked off his hat. The keepers, seeing this, took fright and fled, leaving the doctor at the mercy of his patient. The tiger jumped up and prepared to spring, but the doctor sprang through the raised bars and pulled them down. Against them the tiger dashed, gnashing and foaming with great fury.

The doctor called the keepers together and reproved them for their cowardice; then he locked all the doors, put the keys in his pocket, and said:

"I intend to perform this operation whatever happens. You will fix the lasso again, but if you let go the rope this time I can escape and you'll be left with the tiger."

The men behaved bravely; the trouble-some claw was successfully removed, and was worn as a scarfpin by the doctor.

From that time, whenever the tiger heard its friend's footstep it would throw itself on its back, purr, roll about to attract attention, and never be satisfied till he recognized it.

Circus Children.

The scenes in the dressing room of a circus are both novel and picturesque. The huge tent is divided, first into two main apartments. One is the green room, as it were, where the ring horses are kept ready for the riders.

Here the properties are handed out, and the matron of the wardrobe spreads out the glittering covers for the horses and other paraphernalia that help so largely to make the circus performance a spectacle of dazzling beauty.

The other portion of this same tent is divided up by strips of canvas stretched from one of the main poles to the side walls, forming a series of V-shaped rooms, one of which is devoted to the men, another to the women, and a third to the ballet girls.

A little post in the center of each, with a looking glass not larger than one's hand, serves as a common dressing table, where the paint and powder and other finishing touches of the "make up" are applied.

The clothes are thrown carelessly upon the tops of trunks, which stand in long rows against the canvas walls, or are pinned directly to the canvas itself.

The child is dressed for the ring. It comes to the edge of the canvas wall, pokes its little head through, kisses its mother goodbye and away it goes into the ring upon a galloping horse or around the hippodrome track at a breakneck speed upon one of the ponies.

If it comes back safely it is kissed again, then patted on the head and trundled off to the car by some affectionate companion, and put into its little bed with just as much solicitude as the fondest mother in the land might give to her dimpled darling, though it were cradled in silk and lace.

Latest Spring Styles for Ladies.

"Costly thy hat it as thy purse can buy: rich, not gaudy." So advises Shakspeare, and his words still furnish the best possible rule in matters of dress "Well-dressed women" select such styles as combine neatness with richness, and are at the same time in accordance with the prevailing fashion. The styles adopted in the Parisian Fashion Journals, published by A McDowell & Co., 4 West 14 Street, New York, are always neat, rich and correct. It is because of this fact that these publications have become so popular that they continue to make such rapid headway in the favor of American women. "La Mode de Paris" contains the latest and best French styles "Album des Modes" gives the styles which are most popular in Paris. Each is 35 cts. per copy, or $3.50 per year. Yearly subscribers to either of these journals are entitled to a Premium Book on "Dressmaking Simplified," valued at $5.00, which book is not sold, but is GIVEN AWAY as here indicated. "La Mode" is sold for 15 cents a copy, or $1.50 per annum Do not allow your newsdealer to substitute any other journals for these. If necessary you can be supplied with them direct from the house in New York.

"We always fry ours in Cottolene."

Our Meat, Fish, Oysters, Saratoga Chips, Eggs, Doughnuts, Vegetables, etc.

Like most other people, our folks formerly used lard for all such purposes. When it disagreed with any of the family (which it often did,) we said it was "too rich." We finally tried and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lastly Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

LOUIS XIV.

Louis XIV was declared king when he was 4 and one half years old under the regency of his mother, his father Louis XIII dead, or rather just previous to the demise of his father. In early youth he developed a positive character. There had sprung up a deadly feud between the court, headed by the Cardinal Minister Mazarin upon the one side, and the Parliament upon the other. There were riots in Paris. Affairs looked threatening. Mazarin led with the young king and regent to St. Germain and surrounded the court with troops. Parliament declare Mazarin an enemy. Now two rival courts in France. There were two factions, the Mazarins and Frondes. Mazarin by fraud and extortion accumulated an immense fortune. He was stripped of this by the Frondes. There was but a superficial reconciliation and Mazarin escaped. There was great tumult thinking the king was carried away with him. The attempt was made but without success. At the age of 13 Louis XIV was made the absolute king of France, and there were conflicts between the forces of the king and Parliament. The carnage was dreadful. The king got rid of his Cardinal and there was reconciliation between king and Parliament, that lasted but a short while, for the king denounced the leaders of the Frondes and hostilities were renewed between the king and the Frondes. Mazarin turns up successful and again controls the king and France. The king marries Maria Theresa of Spain before the Spanish and French Courts. This brought reconciliation between France and Spain, as these nations had been quarreling and fighting. Louis' sole object was to aggrandize himself by promoting the splendor, the power, and the glory of the monarchy. To maintain this reckless and utterly useless extravagance of the king and the Court the millions of the peasantry of France were compelled to live in mud hovels, to wear the coarsest garbs, to eat the plainest food, while their wives and their daughters toiled barefooted in the fields. They were compelled to help drag the plough with donkeys hitched along side of them. This was the Bourbon dynasty that ruled France for four hundred years at least. Do we wonder, at the French Revolution?

Mazarin was the monster that ruled the king, the Court and France. Mazarin died while his body was subjected to the most extraordinary convulsions. He not only supported the Court in the most wanton expenditure but robbed the nation to replenish the monstrous expenditures of his own pocket book; had been virtually monarch of France for 18 years.

Fouquet held the keys of the treasury, and sought his own advancement and really lived in grander style than the king by robbing the treasury. The king and courtiers were invited to the chateau of Fouquet and then he found that its magnificence outrivalled his own palaces. The king was thoroughly informed of the rascality of Fouquet and he was imprisoned, and all his property confiscated and came near losing his life—all this helped not the peasantry. Louis invested with absolute power with all the Court bowing before him in the most abject homage, had gradually begun to think himself a god For some time he had been exploring sites for a palace that would transcend in grandeur anything ancient or modern. He lit upon Versailles, 12 miles away where the palace should be surrounded with dense forests. This place outrivalled in gaieties and festivities all Europe: the expenses were enormous, and came from the bone and sinew of enslaved France. The stupendous pile of buildings eclipsed all other palaces ever reared upon the globe, the king's palace costing 33,000,000. The plans for the palaces came from Mansard—our Mansard roofs are named after him. Over thirty thousand soldiers were employed 7 years helping the workmen.

Mansard was the eminent architect of 17th century. The laying out of the grounds the work upon them and the multitude, vastness and splendor of the palaces cost the modest sum of two hundred million dollars. It was all finished in 25 years. Here the royal family and court resided till the Revolution of 1789. The fetes, festivals and tournaments of 7 days—the size of the court was about a thousand nobles and ladies—their cost is not counted in the above millions. The marriage of Louis and Maria Theresa was one of political policy, and was not a happy one. He manifested great fondness for his maids of honor from time to time, and they had children and he was the father. We are not to suppose there is any more virtue and happiness in high life than in lower life. Poverty nor riches, or station has but little to do with integrity, honesty, candor, virtue and happiness.

History furnishes that in all ages many kings, queens, monarchs and princes have been miserable wretches and destitute of honor, honesty and virtue. The ties of consanguinity are feeble in courts, and often so among brothers and sisters when the Estate is to be divided. The queen mother, Anna of Austria died after a long illness from a loathesome cancer.

She was the aunt of Maria Theresa, wife of Louis. The King wanted Holland and Chas. II of England was bribed in order to get it. At this time France was the most powerful of the continental nations. Holland was conquered by war. Great exactions were made which she refused: the dikes were broken, and Holland was flooded. Maratime Holland, weak on land, was powerful on sea. Louis threw up the sponge, a combination was formed against Louis—Emp. of Germany, Spain and Flanders with Prince of Orange. There was war and Louis conquered. He got half of Flanders, Dunkirk and other territory. Who was the "Man with the Iron Mask?" The son of Madame de la Valliere, who was of Louis' court, and had been intimate with the King. His name Count Vermanders: was dissipated and struck the dauphin, the King's eldest son: was condemned to death, but through influence of the mother, was imprisoned, wearing an iron mask for over 30 yrs., was treated with consideration belonging to his rank, but death was his portion if he ever revealed his name. War between Catholics and Protestants and thousands slain. We skip a portion of Louis' reign. He is on the wane. The war between the Protestants and Catholics was terrible. A protest came from the Protestant countries that intimidated the King. Louis marries in secret Madame de Maintenon at Versailles. She had been maid of honor for a long time. Mansard built the King's palace, Trianon, which afterward became the favorite residence of Maria Antoinette. The palaces of Versailles still unfinished had already cost Louis countless millions, yet they did not suit him. It was cold grandeur, cheerless. He had other palaces, none suited him. His war with Germany; thousands slain.

The people were in a terrible state of poverty and slavery after a reign of 70 yrs. such the condition of France when Louis died. These sufferings and corruptions were the origin of the French Revolution. Louis XIV died amidst the rejoicings of his courtiers and the nation. Louis XV commenced his reign.

The One-horse Farmer.

HE IS MADE OF ALL ROUND PREJUDICES AND CHEAP IDEAS.

The one-horse farmer has a lifelong ambition to gain a reputation for wearing a dirty shirt.

He will alarm the neighborhood by getting up two hours before day, then sit around and not go to work till after sun up.

He will ride around a week looking for a $2 hog.

He will complain of hard times, then tear his pants climbing a fence where a gate ought to be.

He will pay $3 for a new bridle, then let the calf chew it to pieces before Sunday.

He will get all his neighbors to help in getting a cow out of the bog, then let her die for the want of attention.

Stock will get in and destroy his crop at a place in his fence that he has been putting off fixing for six months.

He will sprain his back lifting something to show how strong he is.

He will talk all day Sunday on what he knows about farming, then ride round the neighborhood Monday, hunting seed potatoes.

He will go in his shirt sleeves on a cold day, to show how much he can stand, then return home at night and occupy two-thirds of the fire-place till bed time.

He will ridicule the mechanism of a cotton planter and then go out and mash his thumb nailing a board on the fence.

He will go to town on Saturday and come back with fifty cents worth of coffee, a paper of pins, a dollar's worth of chewing tobacco and his belly full of whiskey.

He is economical; economy is his forte; he will save ten cent's worth of axle grease and ruin the spindle of a $70 wagon.

He won't subscribe for a newspaper, but will borrow one from his friend and forget to return it.—Texas Siftings.

For 35 Years

Mr. HIRAM THWEATE, an aged and prominent citizen living near Troy, Alabama, says that for thirty-five years he was sorely afflicted with Eczema on his face. The eruptions were of a large and cancerous nature. That he tried a number of experienced physicians, but with little result, and then received only temporary relief. After having used only seven bottles of S. S. S. he feels like a new man. The painful trouble is all gone, and now at sixty years of age he is once more in good health, and restored to his family. He states that his cure is entirely due to S. S. S. He says that he is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and that his post-office address is Olean, Pike County, Ala., and that as he wishes all sufferers to know the good that he has received from the medicine, he will take pleasure in answering any inquiries that may be sent him. BYRON CLARK, A. M. M. D.
NEW YORK CITY.

SPECIALIST,

In the treatment of Chronic Diseases solicits Chronic, Obstinate cases who have obtained no relief elsewhere, and confines his practice to such cases only as are so clearly and fully developed as to make complete and positive Diagnosis without Questioning or allowing patients to make a statement of their condition. This method of examination is made in order to eliminate as far as human skill and experience can do, all elements of uncertainty in the diagnosis and treatment of diseases, and inspire confidence when lost by unsuccessful if not injurious treatment from mistaken diagnosis. On this basis of Positive Diagnosis, for treatment Dr. Clark's Experience has become strictly unlimited by a Thirty Year's Practice which in extent, variety and successful results is equalled by few and excelled by none. Patients, male and female, not cured by ordinary treatment or in doubt as to the nature of their diseases especially invited.

DR. CLARK, Originated, Teaches and Practices Positive diagnosis and by confining his practice to the fully developed diseases of Men and Women has attained unusual success in the treatment of many so-called incurable maladies. If the examination is not in very strict accordance with the symptoms the patient is advised not to undergo treatment at all. The doctor can be consulted free of charge at

THE COLUMBIAN,
Bloomsburg, Pa.

FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 1892.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst of New York, visited some disreputable houses in that city and procured evidence which he laid before the grand jury and had a number of people indicted. The Doctor seems to have had a pretty good time, as in his investigations he saw nude women dance the can can, play leap frog, and he drank beer with them. Perhaps the end justifies the means.

The battle in Rhode Island on Wednesday was a hard fought one. The vote was the largest ever cast in the state. For Governor the vote was as follows: Wardwell democrat, 22,072; Brown, republican, 23,187; Burton, people's party, 176; Gilbert, prohibition, 1,411. The state law requires a majority vote to elect, and as there is no election by the people, the legislature will elect, and as that is republican, the republican candidates for state officers will be chosen.

The result is a surprise to everybody and shows that there are several thousand people in the state whom party managers can never locate.

The total vote of Rhode Island is only about 42,000. The republicans carried the state in 1888 by 3,173 plurality, but the democrats had a plurality in 1889 of 4,419; in 1890, 1,560, and in 1891, 1,254.

We would advise all farmers to keep on hand Bull's Head Poultry Powder. It is indispensable where poultry is kept. Price only 25 cents.

It is well for the Democrats of this community to understand early in the approaching campaign that Mr. Charles A. Dana, editor of the Sun newspaper, proposes to carry out his accustomed method of fighting the regular Democratic nominee for the Presidency, in the hope of electing the Republican candidate, as has been his custom in all elections since his personal friend, Samuel J. Tilden, ran for the office. Mr. Dana has been convinced all along that all the chances were in favor of Grover Cleveland's receiving the nomination, and therefore he has made it appear that he has some cause for hating Cleveland personally, so that this shall be an excuse for working for the Republican candidate when the time comes. As a matter of fact, Mr. Dana has no reasons whatever for hating Mr. Cleveland, except that the latter is an honest tariff reform Democrat. Mr. Dana is a high tariff Republican, and will combat any man, unless he be a Tammany spoilsman, who is opposed to the principles of that class of partisan. The public should not lose sight of the fact that the Sun is a Republican newspaper in national politics and a Tammany organ locally. It is, in fact, as regards its politics, the most hypocritical and despicable sheet from Maine to Texas, and it is a compliment to Grover Cleveland and to his Democratic integrity that he is so cordially hated and bitterly opposed by its editor.—Town Topics.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

The Philadelphia Times of Sunday prognosticates the action of the State Convention as follows:

The Democratic State Convention in Harrisburg, April 13, will be composed of 463 delegates, the 85 from this city and 33 from Allegheny making up about one fourth of the number. The Cleveland Pattison sentiment, it is openly stated, will be composed of fully four-fifths of the entire number. Of the delegates already elected the State administration claim not less than 275, and believe that 85 of the number yet to be chosen will be on their list. Berks county is given as an illustration. The county committee of 65 members meets April 6 and will elect 18 delegates solid for Cleveland and Pattison; Luzerne with 16, Schuylkill's 15, Montgomery's 13 and York's 12 are confidently counted upon the same way. As a proof of their claim the Cleveland-Pattison element refers to the result in Dauphin county, where ex-Congressman Meyers was badly defeated, and to Franklin county, where some of Governor Pattison's opponents reside and have lost control of the organization.

The convention will nominate a candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court and two candidates for Congressman-at-Large. The selection of thirty-two Presidential electors and sixty-four delegates to the National Convention at Chicago will be practically left to the Congressional districts and have been generally agreed upon.

Benjamin M. Nead, of the State committee, who was in town yesterday, said that Chairman James Marshall Wright would open up headquarters at the Bolton House April 11.

For Supreme Judge there is no opposition to the nomination of Justice Christopher Heydrick, of Venango, successor by appointment of Governor Pattison to the late Justice Clarke. For Congressman-at Large the leading candidates are Mayor Thomas P. Merrit, of Berks, a World's Fair Commissioner; Lawyer D. C. DeWitt, of Bradford; Ex-Federal District Attorney Georgo A. Allen, of Erie; Robert E. James, a leading member of the Northampton bar; John Kuhns, of Westmoreland, president of the Greensburg Steel Company; Ex-Congressman John B. Storm, of Monroe, and Captain William Hasson, of Venango.

For electors at-large, Ex-Senator Eckley B. Coxe, of Luzerne; Ex-Senator Charles R. Buckalew, of Columbia; Colonel John P. Linton, of Cambria; John C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia; David T. Watson, of Allegheny; Ex-Congressman Mortimer F. Elliott, of Tioga; Robert E. Monaghan, of Chester; Augustus V. Dively, of Blair, and Ex-Congressman John W. Ryon, of Schuylkill, are very much referred to.

In the line of delegates at-large to the Chicago Convention there are a number of candidates. State Senator George Ross, of Bucks, and William M. Singerly, this city, will likely receive the united support of Eastern Pennsylvania counties, including the Philadelphia delegation of eighty five. Attorney General Hensel has been urged to be a candidate and his name meets with much favor. Ex-Sheriff Charles Robinson, of Lackawanna, is a candidate and is very popular in his section. Among others on the list are Senator Hall, of Elk; Thomas Collins, an extensive iron manufacturer of Centre, now in the city; Senator Grant Herring, of Columbia; John L. M'Kinney, of Crawford, ex-Mayor of Tittusville and a leader in oil circles; George F. Baer, a distinguished member of the Berks bar; Ex-Federal Solicitor George A. Jenks, of Jefferson; Robert E. Wright, of Lehigh; E. Greenough Scott, of Luzerne; Congressman Mutchler, of Northampton; Colonel James Ellis, of Schuylkill, and Mortimer F. Elliott.

Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other.

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." MRS. ELLA A. GOFF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

Wound up—the man or woman who's "run-down." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery sets the wheels going. It starts the torpid liver into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses, repairs, and strengthens the system, and restores health and vigor. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, and builds up flesh and strength.

For all scrofulous humors and blood-taints, and even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula), if taken in time, it's a positive remedy.

Unlike the sarsaparillas, which claim to be good for the blood in March, April, and May, "Golden Medical Discovery" works equally well at all seasons.

Unlike other blood-purifiers, too, it's guaranteed to benefit or cure, in every case, or your money is returned.

On these terms, it's the cheapest. You pay only for the good you get. But it's the best—or it couldn't be sold so.

J. D. WILLCOX.

One of the Oldest Settlers in Penna.

J. D. Willcox was born 67 years ago and has lived most of the time in Olmsville, Tioga Co., Pa., where he is a a practical farmer and a successful country merchant. He is deservedly popular, known for miles around and by strict integrity and honesty he has attached to himself a host of friends, and has received from the Government the Postmastership of his village. He says: I had been weighed down by poor health for a long time and gradually grew worse until four years ago the crisis came. At that time four of our best physicians could give me no encouragement and some of them said I would not live a year. I commenced to use Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, Kidney, Liver and Bladder Cure. My doctors said your remedy might help me for a time, but that I would not be here a year hence. I took Swamp-Root for nearly twelve months three times a day, and used your U. & O. Anointment rubbing in thoroughly over the affected parts, across my chest, liver and back, warming it in with a hot flat iron. The rheumatism was so bad that I could not get either hand to my face. My health now is very good, in fact, I think I am as well as most men at my age—67 years. I give your Swamp-Root entire credit of saving my life and the good health I now enjoy is due to its use. I have worked some on the farm of late and do most of the chores myself.

This is not written for publication, but if it will give others confidence in your great remedy, I have no objections to your using it as best you can. With best regard I remain. J. D. Willcox.

This is but one of the hundreds of letters received daily by Dr. Kilmer & Co., and five thousand dollars will be given to any one who will prove any portion of the above testimony untrue. Swamp-Root is beyond question the greatest discovery of the age.

FORGETHEM OUT—Scientists tell us now that the best and the safest way to cure diseases of the blood and skin is to force out through the skin the microbes or germs which produce disease. In this matter, Swift's Specific has been about sitxy years in advance of medical science, as it has for that length of time been curing blood and skin diseases, by eliminating the germs and poison through the pores of the skin. S. S. S., does this effectually safely and quickly. It is entirely a vegetable compound, and harmless to the most delicate child

Mr W. C. CURTIS, editor of the Mecklemburg News, at Boydton, Va., says that he has been entirely relieved from on abcess which formed in his throat, and caused intense pain, almost choking him. He could not swallow solid food, and was in a most painful condition. He says that he took only three bottles and that it effected a complete cure. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

Talk's cheap, but when it's backed up by a pledge of the hard cash of a financially responsible firm, or company of world-wide reputation for fair and honorable dealing, it means business!

Now, there are scores of sarsaparillas and other blood purifiers, all cracked up to be the best, most peculiar and wonderful, but bear in mind (for your own sake), there's only one guaranteed blood purifier and remedy for torpid liver and all diseases that come from bad blood.

That one—standing solitary and alone—sold on trial, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

If it doesn't do good in skin, scalp and scrofulous diseases—and pulmonary consumption is only lung-scrofula—just let its makers know and get your money back.

Talk's cheap, but to back a poor medcine, or a common one, by selling it on trial, as "Golden Medical Discovery" is sold, would bankrupt the largest fortune.

Talk's cheap, but only "Discovery" is guaranteed

Lamp-chimneys cost so little that we let them go on breaking. We go on buying and grumbling.

What should we do?

Get Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass;" they are made of tough glass, tough against heat; they do not break in use; they do from accident.

They are fine, well made, exact; they fit the lamps they are made for; stand upright; the shade is right; they make a right draught for light; they are uniform. Both bear a label for your protection. Look for it.

Be willing to pay a nickel more and stop this constant expense and annoyance.

You pay your money and you take your choice. It is a good thing when you are invited to take your choice to insist that you have something to choose from.

You will find no fault with us in this respect if you will come and look at our wall paper and window curtains.

If you have need of either come and see our stock; if you have not, come along just the same.

We know you will admire the beautiful combination in wall papers; the new shades in curtains and be astonished at what you can do at a moderate outlay.

A PHOTOGRAPHER'S RUSE.

Trick Extraordinary as Practiced in Berlin.

When Fox, the court photographer, finds that a customer hasn't a pleasant expression he has an appropriate picture thrown on a screen by a magic lantern.

And the sitter always looks pleasant.—Fliegende Blaetter.

It Was a Good Remedy.

He sat alone near the steam heater in the Grand Pacific and he looked as if he had not a friend in the world, says the Chicago Post.

It was easy to see that his name was not on the register. He was a rotunda loafer. There are many like him. But this particular chairwarmer seemed to have soured on humanity. His morose visage would have turned sweet cream into clabber milk.

Near him in another chair was a fat, good natured chairboarder, who seemed as jolly as Mark Tapley himself. He noticed the gloom laden features of his neighbor and sought to comfort him. "This weather makes one feel sort o' blue?" ventured the good natured man.

"Does it?" snapped he of the rueful countenance.

"Very bad weather for the grip. Got the grip?"

"Naw."

"Thought you had, you look so downhearted. Anyone dead?"

"Naw."

"Thought mebbe there was. I lost my mother in law last fall, and I felt so bad about it I had to go out behind the woodshed, where my wife couldn't see me, to laugh—to cry, I mean. Had financial reverses?"

"Naw."

"Didn't know. My brother in law loaned me $8 once and he didn't seem to quite ever get over it. Not been crossed in love?"

"Naw."

"Can't tell. It acts that way sometimes. Once me and Samantha had a tiff and it affected me so I had to lie abed for three days, right in the middle of the harvest, too. Well what might be the matter that you look so bad? What are you thinking so deeply about?"

With a meaning scowl—"I am thinking up some good way to kill off d——d fools."

"Ever try suicide?" said the good natured man, and the sour faced man kicked over the chair as he fled.

Why It Is.

She—I wonder why leap year has an extra day in it?

He—Oh, I suppose it is to give the girls that much more chance.

So He Was.

"I thought you advertised that you were selling out at cost," growled the customer, throwing down the required 25 cents for a small package of note paper.

"Yes, sir," replied the stationer briskly. "That's right. We referred to our postage stamps. Want any?"—Chicago Tribune.

His Picture.

Willie (while Mr. Hankinson is waiting for Miss Irene to come down)—Sis has got your picture.

Mr. Hankinson (his heart beating wildly)—Where did she get it, Willie?

"Found it in a newspaper. I heard her tell why it looked just like you. But it didn't have your name under it."

"What was the name under it, Willie?"

"I think the name was 'Before Taking,' or something of that kind. Got any caramels, Mr. Hankinson?"—Chicago Tribune.

He—I understood all along the old gentleman was going to furnish the house. She—So he will. Pa'll furnish the house, but you'll have to furnish the furniture.—Upholsterer.

Taught by Experience.—"Are any of the colors discernible to the touch?" asked the school teacher. "I have often felt blue," replied the boy at the head of the class.—Brooklyn Life.

Not a Matter of Choice.—"I think she is a two faced creature," said one of the girls indignantly. "Oh, no," returned Miss Cordial; "if she had two faces she would never use this one."—Washington Star.

A Western Incident.—"As I was saying, the rival overtook them and then the knot was tied." "And he did nothing to prevent it?" "Certainly not; he arranged it himself—under the right ear."—New York World.

An Irishman woke up, one night, to find a burglar in his room. The former asked the burglar what he was looking for, and received the answer, "Nothing." "Faith!" said Pat, "and you'll foind that in me whisky bottle."

An Eighteen Karat Gentleman.—Mrs. Ipstein—Vot for you bowing and scraping to dot man? Is he a friend of yours? Mr. Ipstein—No, dot is Mr. Soaker; he has been dree months by dot Keeley cure, and his system is chuck full of gold.—Puck.

The Pasha's Daughter.

A visit to the harem considerably altered my preconceived opinions of Turkish life. The pasha's daughter, a bright, pretty little woman, took me in charge, and after asking me a number of questions concerning my own way of living, kindly answered those I asked in return. A Turkish "effendi," she said, rarely married more than one wife. He was not esteemed socially when he did so. But polygamy was allowed. It could not be gainsaid that the sultan had several wives, but they did not count. Only one counted. No! Turkish ladies were not so shut up as one supposed. They went out driving and shopping when they pleased. It was very amusing to spend a day at the bazars. It was true wives in Turkey could not go out driving and walking with their husbands, or even be seen in their company. It was against Turkish etiquette; it would be "shocking," in fact. Nor did they ever share a husband's meals, nor show themselves in the part of the house he inhabited, nor ever, by any chance, see or encounter any one of his friends, nor any gentleman whatsoever, nor go to the theater, nor spend the evening, nor travel. It was against the law for a Turkish woman to leave the country; it would not be allowed. Still, these trifling exceptions apart, Turkish ladies had plenty of liberty. They could visit each other and shop when they chose. Their husbands were obliged to provide for them entirely, and to satisfy all their caprices. They could not be asked to do a hand's turn for themselves—not even to nurse their own babies. In short, I think the pasha's daughter was of opinion that all was for the best in the best of all possible worlds, signifying as a matter of course the Ottoman world alone.

Literary Truths.

Count Tolstoi says that there are three things needed to make an acceptable writer: he must have something to say, he must know how to say it, and he must have sincerity. To write simply to suit the popular taste is of course insincere. For the benefit of young writers we quote a few condensed statements of literary truths: One's first business in writing is to say what one has to say. An epithet is an addition; but an addition may be an incumbrance. Most people seem to think the coat makes the gentleman; almost all fancy the diction makes the poet. Too much is seldom enough. Pumping after your bucket is full prevents it from keeping so. Perhaps it is when the imagination flies the lowest, that we see the hues of her plumage. The best training for style is speech; not monologues, or lectures—but conversation, whence the French, and women generally, derive the graces of their style; and the agnostic oratory of the bar, the senate, and the forum, which make people speak home, and to the point. The pulpit, too, would be a like discipline, if they who mount it would oftener think as much of the persons they are preaching to as of the preacher.

Rapidity of Speech.

"Have you any idea how many words a person talks a minute?" said a stenographer. "There is so much individual difference," he went on, "that it is difficult to strike an average. But I should say that from one hundred and fifty to one hundred and seventy-five words per minute would be a fair average. A person who speaks three hundred words a minute is talking very rapidly indeed. To give you some idea of the fearful rate of speed represented by three hundred words in sixty seconds, figure out how many columns of an ordinary newspaper would be needed to report an hour's talk with such a voluable speaker. You will find that such a talker, were the speech given in full, could fill from ten to twelve columns, solid type. On an average women talk much faster than men. Many women talk three hundred words per minute, ten hours per day, every day of their lives, and never seem to weary. But there is little to commend in fast talking. If a person has anything worth saying, there is certainly time enough to say it well.

Ten men can be arranged to march in single file 3,628,000 ways.

A Proper Request.—"Now, Willie," said mamma, "I want you to keep very quiet. I don't want you to say a word all through dinner." "Ve'y well, mamma," returned Willie. "Only I fink you ought to help by givin' my mouf plenty of fings to eat, so's to keep it busy."

He Kept Still.—Mother—How did your face get that strained, agonized look in your photographs? Did the light hurt your eyes? Small Son—No, ma'am. The man tole me to try to keep still, an' I did Street & Smith's Good News.

The talent of success is nothing more than doing what we can do well, and doing well whatever you do, without a thought of fame.—Longfellow.

Slander, like mud, dries and falls off.

Another Legend Contradicted.

Legends are the joy of poets, while the joy of historians is to destroy legends. If Schiller could return to the world, he would be disconsolate on learning that the history of William Tell is now only a fable; and he would experience still deeper dejection on discovering that no one believes in his Don Carlos. History has proven that such a character never existed, and the true Don Carlos resembled him as a raven resembles a swan.

Schiller's Don Carlos is not the historical character, but who shall dare say that his drama is wholly false? He knew how to embody in representative characters all the ideas which possessed the consciences of men in the time of Philip II, and from act to act, from scene to scene, in his great drama he found words with which to paint an age and a country. The documentary historian attaches too much value to minute exactness as to facts, and, occupied entirely with details, the great general truth sometimes escapes him. This fact serves as a revenge for the poet.—Chautauquan.

A Harvard Student's Remedy for Insomnia.

I can't get to sleep. I try everything. I count up to a hundred and look at one spot on the ceiling and say my prayers forward and then backward, and then I think of sheep going over a fence, but it isn't any use.

Then as I'm tossing around I think I hear some one saying: "George, get up: its half-past 7."

"All right; in a minute."

"George, get up, or you'll be late."

"Oh, no; I wont be late. Just a few minutes longer."

"George, you've got to be at the office at 8. You'd better hustle."

"Oh, all right. Right away. So comf'ble here—can't—m-m-m—pret' soon—m-m-m — hgnor-hgnor-hgnor." [Blessed sleep.]—Harvard Lampoon.

Cruelly Deceived.

Little Johnnie R., who in his city home had heard frequent references to our bucolic brother as the "honest, horny handed farmer," showed an unaccountable desire, on visiting the country, to see a "son of the soil;" and when the family was met at the depot by Deacon Smith and chariot, the child glanced eagerly at his hands, and then, in a tone of disappointment, whispered:

"Papa, he is not a farmer, is he?"

"Yes, my son."

"But—but, papa, where are the horns on his hands?"

Stranger—A million or two will be necessary to make us comfortable, and of course you will give it. Shall I leave my satchel here while I go to present myself to your daughter?

Satisfactory.

Peck (the grocer)—So you want a job in the store, do you?

Freddy Gazzam—Yes, sir.

"Do you know anything about arithmetic?"

"Yes, sir."

"How much would 10 pounds of sugar come to at four and a half cents a pound?"

"50 cents, sir."

"I think you'll do."

Birds of a Feather.

The teacher had been giving a class of youngsters some ideas of adages and how to make them and to test her training she put a few questions.

"What is an idle brain?" was one.

"The devil's workshop," was the prompt response.

Then there were several more till this one came:

"Birds of a feather do what?"

"Lay eggs," piped a small boy before anybody else had a chance to speak.

Death and the Doctor.

A curious compliment to a dead man was uttered by the Marchioness of ——, who, when told that the celebrated physicion Bordeu had been found dead in his bed, exclaimed: "Ah! death was so afraid of him that he did not dare attack him except when he was asleep."—Argonaut.

Not on the Bench.

"You say this man had been drinking," said his honor. "Drinking what?"

"Whisky, I suppose," answered Officer McGobb.

"You suppose?" Don't you know whisky? Aren't you a judge?"

"No, y'r Anner. Only a policeman."

His honor looked carefully at his minion a moment and then called the next case.—Indianapolis Journal.

Always Delicate.

I love all the delicate ways that she has;
Her hands and her delicate smile,
She's a delicate nose and a delicate pose,
And a dreamy and delicate style.
Her delicate voice is a musical treat
As rythmic as fountains that splash;
But she's at her best, is my delicate pest,
In her delicate teasing for cash.

A Truthful Girl.

Cora — What! you going to marry Fred Hipple? Madge—Yes. Cora—Why, not long ago you said you would not marry him if he were the last man in the world. Madge—Well, I've kept my word. He isn't.—Judge.

That Was His Lay.

"Can you beat a carpet?" said the lady of the house to the tramp who asked for something to eat.

"Don't know, mum," he replied frankly, "I never tried. But I guess mebbe I can, fer I've beat most everything else in this town."

Louise, two years old, heard a stone explode in the kitchen range. She asked her mother what it was. "Oh, nothing but a popping in the stove!" Louise looked thoughtful a moment and then she said, "Auntie, I believe the stove sneezed."

SHE PAID HER WAY.

How an Independent Woman Supported Herself and Paid for Her Burial.

Every middle-aged Philadelphian can remember a wild, picturesque figure that thirty years ago was as familiar a sight to the inhabitants of the Quaker City as the Liberty Bell or the wooden statue of Franklin over the door of the famous library.

"Irish Sheelah," as the town called her, was a gaunt woman, nearly six feet in height, whose vacant eyes told her story before she spoke.

Since she was a child, the children with sound brains had hooted at her and stoned her. She was a child still, with white hair and wrinkles. She knew nothing; she did not even know that the learning and thought and pleasure was in the world in which other people found their life.

Her only enjoyment was in the tags of bright ribbons stitched to her old skirt, which the children gave her from their doll's rags. These were all that she would accept from them; she was never known to take money. That was the one sound spot in her poor, crazed brain—a fierce pride of independence.

Her old mother became helpless. Sheelah could not work, but she would take no alms. She donned a man's coat and high hat, and set out "to earn money like a man," only to be followed by larger crowds of children than before. Charitable friends attempted to send the two helpless women to asylums. But Sheelah declared that no one but herself should support her mother. On this point she was resolute and—sane.

It occurred to some one to make of her a street debt collector. When a creditor despaired of payment of a small bill he gave it to her. She stationed herself with it silently on the curbstone in front of the debtor's house. She made no disturbance and could not be driven away. But every passer-by understood why the well-known grotesque figure was there.

The delinquent seldom was able to bear the mortification for more than one day.

For twenty-five years the poor, flighty creature steadily pursued this strange calling in order, as she persisted, "to pay her way." After her mother's death she grew rapidly more feeble and wild.

But she had one solid comfort. "I'm no beggar. I pay my way."

The poor demented woman, at whom so many people had laughed, died at last. Under her pillow was left money enough to bury her.

Even into the grave Sheelah proudly paid her own way.

FAST PLAYING.

Wonderful Finger Feats in Rapid Piano Work.

Sir James Paget says that he once heard Mlle. Janotha render a presto by Mendelssohn in which she had to play 5,595 notes in four minutes and three seconds! Every one of these notes involve certain movements of the fingers, and in many there were movements laterally as well as those up and down. Let us say that there were three distinct movements for each note. As there were twenty-four notes per second she moved her fingers at least seventy-two distinct times each second.

Moreover, each of those notes was determined by the will and allotted to a certain place, with a certain force at a certain time and with a certain duration. Therefore, there were four distinct qualities in each of the seventy-two movements in each second. Such were the transmissions outward. And all those were conditional on consciousness of the position of each hand and each finger before it was moved and by the sound and the force of each touch. Therefore, there were three conscious sensations to every note.

There were seventy-two transmissions per second, 144 to and fro, and those with constant change of quality. And then, added to that, all the time the memory was remembering each note in its due time and place and was exercised in the comparison of it with others that came before, so that it would be fair to say that there were not less than 200 transmissions of nerve force to and from the brain outward and inward every second during that wonderful performance.—St. Louis Republic.

A Wife as a Commodity.

Having made his fortune in the provinces, a wealthy Frenchman wrote to his business correspondent in Paris in the following terms: "As I have taken a resolution to marry, and do not find a suitable match out here, do not fail to send by the next ship bound hither a young lady of the subjoined qualifications: Let her be of an honest family, between twenty and twenty-five years of age, of a middle stature and well-proportioned; her face agreeable, her character blameless, and her constitution strong enough to bear the change of climate; that there may be no occasion to look for a second wife because of the death of the first, soon after she came to hand, which must be provided against as much as possible. Considering the great distance and the dangers of the sea, I demand no portion. If she arrives here on the conditions stipulated, with the present letter indorsed by you, I hereby engage to marry the bearer at fifteen days' sight."

This is a sensible letter, very different from ordinary billets-doux, and it was replied to with punctuality and in the same terms. Among the goods sent by his correspondent was the following item: "A young gentlewoman of twenty-five years of age, of the quality and shape as conditioned per order, as appears by the affidavits and certificates she has to produce." A few days, we are told, were devoted to courtship, when the nuptial ceremony took place, with great magnificence; "nor did Martinique boast a happier couple than the one thus singularly united."—Irish Times.

A Carat of Gold.

Twenty-four carat gold is all gold; 22-carat gold has 22 parts of gold, 1 of silver and 1 of copper; 18-carat gold has 18 parts of gold, and 3 each of silver and copper; 12-carat gold is half gold and has 3½ parts of silver and 8½ of copper. Its specific gravity is about 15; pure gold is 19.

WOLVERTON ON THE SILVER QUESTION.

The following letter explains the views of Congressman Wolverton on the question of free coinage:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, D. C. March 30, 1891.

Dear Sir: Enclosed find copy of House Bill 4426 known as the Bland Silver Bill. I will also send you some of the current literature pertaining to this discussion. The opposition to this bill is not because those opposed to it are opposed to bi metallism, or to gold and silver coin, but because in another form it is simply protection to the silver mine owner, who is presumed to be, and generally is, of the wealthiest class in the silver producing districts of this country.

In other words because it enables a man who owns the bullion to walk into the mint with seventy cents worth of silver and come out with it stamped worth a dollar, and go out on the streets and employ a laboring man and give him the same seventy cents worth for a dollar's worth of labor, and in this way place in his pocket thirty cents' worth of the earner's money. At the present price of silver thirty cents of such a dollar, or thirty per cent, would be simply fiat money.

If by means of an International Congress some standard could be made to make the gold and silver dollar equal in value, there would be no objection in coining all the silver in the world into money, but to coin the Bland dollar under this bill is simply giving the silver bullion owner thirty per cent ofprotection in an indirect manner, which it seems to me would inevitably draw from this country all the gold and make our only money the Bland silver dollar.

Yours truly,
S. P. WOLVERTON.

"Two years ago I suffered severely from an attack of sore throat

And Bronchitis

It seemed as if I could not survive, all the usual remedies proving of no avail. At last I thought of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after taking two bottles of this medicine I was restored to health."—Chas. Gambini, Smith's Ranch, Sonoma Co., Cal.

"There is nothing better for coughs than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I use no other preparation."—Annie S. Butler, Providence, R.I.

W. H. Graff & Co., Druggists, Carson, Iowa, certify that all throat and lung troubles are speedily

Cured By Using

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It leads all others.

"In January, 1889, I was taken down with measles and scarlet fever, and exposing myself too soon, caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I was forced to take to my bed and was so ill that the doctors despaired of my recovery, supposing me to be in quick consumption. Change of climate was recommended, but I began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and soon found relief. After using several bottles, I was cured, so that I am now as well and rugged as ever."—John Dillander, Cranesman of Steam Shovel, G. S. & S. F. R. R. Co., Justin, Texas.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

To run a newspaper without occasionally publishing an item that is untrue, or gives offense, is like running a railroad without having smash-ups and accidents. It can't be done, truthfully remarks an exchange. No man in the world is so likely to be imposed upon as the editor of a newspaper. Pushed with work constantly—day and night—he must rely in a great measure upon second or third parties for information as to the events that transpire during the week. Frequently statements are received from good reliable people, but which are subsequently discovered, after having gone through many mouths to be without foundation in fact. If, therefore, kind reader, you find yourself aggrieved by a statement in your home paper, keep this fact in mind. Don't "fly off the handle," but go to the editor and ask for a correction, and take our word for it, in nine cases out of ten, if your case is just, you will be received like a gentlemen and the correction made with pleasure.

There are twenty well built towns in Kansas without a single inhabitant to waken the echoes of their deserted streets. Saratoga has a $30,000 opera house, a large brick hotel, a $20,000 school house and a number of fine business houses, yet there is nobody even to claim a place to sleep. At Fargo a $20,000 school house stands on the side of the hill, a monument to the bond-voting craze. A herder and his family constitute the sole population of what was once an incorporated city. This is a sad commentary on unhealthy booms. Those Kansas towns, like Wichita, advertised themselves as phenomenal boom cities. For awhile "everything was lovely and the goose hung high," but at last dry rot took hold on the boom towns and killed them.
